

What is AIMSVAR?

The Association of Independent Medical Software Value Added Resellers (AIMSVAR) is a national organization with a 9 year history that was formed to promote the educational interests and welfare of its members. We are a group of growing corporations and independent business owners nation wide. Our members bring diverse vendor relationships and experiences to the organization and form a cumulative group that can act with similar interests and ideals for better financial and non-financial positions with vendors. The diversity of our vendor relationships and medical market experiences gives us a unique opportunity to collaborate in areas such as competitive information, new products, and technical solutions. AIMSVAR works diligently to facilitate relationships and enhance communications with vendors on behalf of the membership.

AIMSVAR also offers forums for members to seek and offer advice. The annual meeting of members includes many educational sessions and provides an opportunity for members to network, building relationships that will help them build their businesses. There are also many committees to be a part of throughout the year that help members connect, become more educated, and create positive change for the organization. Some of these committees include DACs (dealer advisory committees) with our current vendors, New Products which researches and suggest new vendors and technologies to the group, and other committees which help run the organization.
